Janice and Scott Jordan's Breakway Farm Grows With Indiana

BY LENNY SHULMAN

While New York is getting plenty of attention as a destination for breeders looking to take advantage of casino-enhanced purses and awards, mare owners in Kentucky and from other regions have for the past several years also circled Indiana as a locale with lucrative awards and a widening pool of stallions that stand for a reasonable fee.

With Indiana-breds eligible to run for generous stallion, breeder, and owner awards over the past couple of seasons, the state has rivaled Louisiana, Pennsylvania, New York, and other casino-enhanced racing jurisdictions for the business of horsemen who realize that any extra benefit can mean the difference in earning enough to be able to stay in the game.

Situated in the right spot to reap the benefits of Indiana's new popularity—both geographically and because of their skills—are Janice and Scott Jordan. Their Breakway Farm near Dillsboro is located about 85 miles from Louisville, home of Churchill Downs, and around the same distance from Lexington and the heart of the breeding industry. Breakway has

2011 Leading Sires in Canada

State sire lists updated daily online. Go to <http://www.bloodhorse.com/horse-racing/thoroughbred-breeding/sire-lists>

For stallions that stand, will stand, or stood (deceased) in Canada (exported stallions are excluded), and have runners in North America. Listed below are all available statistics for the Northern Hemisphere through December 31, 2011. As supplied to The Blood-Horse by The Jockey Club Information Systems Inc., earnings exclude monies from Japan and Hong Kong. Current year stakes winners include all N.H.-foaled stakes winners worldwide and any S.H.-foaled horses that won a N.H. stakes. *Foal counts include Southern Hemisphere. Cumulative stakes winners includes all countries. (A ♯ indicates a sire represented by his first crop to race).

*A-E and COMPARABLE INDEX: The lifetime Average-Earnings Index indicates how much purse money the progeny of one sire has earned, on the average, in relation to the average earnings of all runners in the same years; average earnings of all runners in any year is represented by an index of 1.00. The Comparable Index indicates the average earnings of progeny produced from mares bred to one sire, when these same mares were bred to other sires. Only 32% of all sires have a lifetime AEI higher than their mares Comparable Index.

compiled an impressive stallion roster and has also earned a reputation for foaling, raising, and breaking good horses.

“I’ve been sending mares there for four years now to foal, and they do an excellent job,” said Kentucky horseman Roger Burton. “They are good caretakers, have a good feeding program, and the horses always look good when we pick them up to bring them back home.”

That top care comes from the Jordans' having spent their entire lives around horses. Janice grew up about a half-hour from the farm in Gilford, Indiana, as a horse-crazy young girl who showed horses at a tender age. A neighbor bred Paint horses, and when Janice was old enough to break horses, she did so at his farm.

“After four years he decided to get into Thoroughbreds, so that was my transition from show horses and Paints,” she said with a laugh. “I got stuck. This is the only thing I’ve ever done. I worked as a waitress for about half a day before I decided it wasn’t for me.”

Janice met Scott at River Downs racetrack in Cincinnati where she was training a string and he’d come in from Beulah Park galloping horses for his father out of the same barn.

“I’m pretty set in my ways of what’s right and wrong, so I used to think I wouldn’t be able to marry another horse person,” Janice said. “But I’ve learned that when you’re in it to the extent we are, with the amount

ILLINOIS THOROUGHBRED BREEDERS FUND PROGRAM

BE A PART OF THE WINNER'S CIRCLE

BE A PART OF THE ILLINOIS PROGRAM

Returning more than $14 million annually to program participants, our program is lucrative for both breeders and owners.

Illinois has an expanded owners' awards program offering sixty and forty percent bonuses for open-company win, place and show finishes. Breeders' awards are earned by open-company winners and first through fourth place finishers in restricted races.

Now is the time to look at buying and foaling in Illinois.

of time and commitment it requires, you can't be in this business without marrying another horse person."

Scott Jordan has worked as the starter at Churchill Downs for the past five years, and when the race meets are over, he works in the office there, commuting from the farm. Janice trained a few horses at the track but mainly worked with younger horses, teaching them gatework.

"We broke horses for years and years," she said. "That was our specialty. But as I got older and started getting broken when I hit the ground instead of breaking horses, we migrated to the breeding and foaling end."

Breakway began 14 years ago, and while Janice, who manages the operation day-to-day, still breaks the occasional horse, the farm is a full-time breeding, boarding, and foaling operation.

This time of year is the busiest at Breakway, when mares either arrive to be bred, foaled, or both. The 40 acres are home to about 40 year-round horses, and when foals hit the ground, the horse population can swell to near 80. Five of the farm's nine stallions remain throughout the year, while four come in just for breeding season. Breakway has several foaling stalls and 24-hour monitoring with cameras. There are both small turnout fields and larger paddocks. During foaling season two full-time employees and one weekend employee come on to aid the Jordans; otherwise, it's pretty much a mom-and-pop operation.

"Last year we foaled 52 mares, which is pretty average for us," noted Janice. "There are plenty of sleepless nights, but my niece is coming to work with us this year so we can split the foal watch, which I'm excited about."

The stallion roster features exceedingly well-bred studs whose lone drawback, compared to their Kentucky cousins, is a slighter record when it comes to racetrack achievements. Grade II winner Century City is the most accomplished stud at Breakway, having won the Arcadia Handicap (gr. IIT) at Santa Anita. The son of Danzig previously stood at Wintergreen Stallion Station in Kentucky. Fast Decision, a son of Gulch who won the grade III Withers Stakes at Aqueduct, is the other graded stakes winner in the stallion barn. Razor (Concorde's Tune) won the Matt Winn Stakes at Churchill Downs. Star Cat is a son of Storm Cat out of multiple champion Ashado. Drewman (Unbridled) is stakes-placed and Mondavi (Maria's Mon) is graded stakes-placed. Also on hand are Skylord (Sky Mesa), Timeraker (Gilded Time), and Unbridled Express (Unbridled's Song), who is grade I stakes-placed.

"We try and go after stallions with good female families," said Janice Jordan. "There are plenty of Storm Cats around, for instance, but we look for the best mare line and try to be selective. A stallion like Century City we did go after, but other times people call us and ask about our program and place the stallion here. As far as value goes, your dollar is worth a great deal more in Indiana. When these stallions cross the state line, the stud fees drop tremendously, and their bloodlines are comparable to many that are in Kentucky."

Stud fees at Breakway range from $3,000 down to $500. "How do you beat those prices?" asked Jordan. "People call and want to negotiate and I'm like, 'You're getting a steal as it is; if you can't afford $1,500 you really need to not be in this business.'"

Jordan said that she's happy if she can get 20 mares to her stallions, most of which are young horses. Century City's first crop will hit the racetrack this year. Star Cat's oldest just turned yearlings. Mondavi had his first crop at the races last year, and his first runner won her second start.

Connie and Richard Snyder, who own Cedar Creek Ranch in New Mexico, threw out a wide search net before deciding to send their Star Cat to stand at Breakway.

"After we bought Star Cat, we decided to stand him somewhere other than in New Mexico so that we could take advantage of one of the breeding programs around the country," said Connie Snyder. "Richard narrowed it down to Indiana, so we took a trip there and visited several farms, one of which was Breakway. After meeting Janice and Scott, we had no doubt where to stand him.

"Both of them are absolutely fine horsemen from the get-go. They are passionate about their horses, and we have the utmost confidence that they take outstandingly good care of our stallion. We're just so impressed, and we're getting ready to ship 14 mares back to Janice and breed them to Star Cat."

Scott's presence at Churchill Downs makes for good connections when it comes to the Jordans' wanting to pick up a mare or two. They try to keep the number of mares they own to a minimum, but circumstances sometimes get in the way.

"We got down to four mares, which is a good number for us," Janice said, "but when you have this many stallions, you have mares that come down the pike and end up being ours. Some clients don't pay their bills, some decide to get out of the business, and there's that mare standing in the field.

"With Scott being at the racetrack, trainers are constantly telling him about mares that can't race anymore but might make a good broodmare. We have never actually gone out to a sale or anywhere else seeking a mare; we leave the sales to our clients. We operate on a tight budget—if we pay the bills, we're happy. By the time the young horses are broke and ready to go to the races, they're pretty easy to sell. So we just try to sell them for close to what we have in them and then hope they run well, because with the stallions here and being the breeders, there's a 30% profit for us on whatever they do at the track. That's 30% without putting any money into them, so that seems like a good gamble for us."

Those awards are at the crux of Indiana's splash as a bigger player in the breeding and racing business. Stallion awards for Indiana-based studs come in at 10% of the gross purse at the state's racetracks, with another 20% available in breeders awards. The state has rescinded a 20% award to owners that it had installed a short time before, but at one time if you had the stallion, the mare, and won a race, you were good for 110% of the purse. Still, the awards remain lucrative.

"I had a client with barbed-wire fencing and farm equipment in his pastures who had three mares and three stallions," said Jordan. "He made more than $200,000 in awards in one year. It's a little tougher now, with better mares showing up in the state, upping the level of competition."

"The open races have become very competitive and exciting to watch," Jordan continued. "And the Indiana-breds have stepped up in the last five years as well."

This is still a good place to be."

Breakway does much of its business foaling mares, and Jordan said she is as busy as she wants to be providing that service. As far as breeding goes, some people are hesitant while trying to figure out if the state government will maintain the level of awards or backtrack as it did with the owners awards. Jordan keeps the incoming mare numbers down to a reasonable level with a policy whereby after Nov. 1, any mare that comes to her to foal has to be bred back to one of the farm's stallions. Still, she stays full, and stated that 80% of the mares sent to her are Kentucky-owned.

Two of those come from Louisville-based Jack Reisz, who began sending mares to Breakway a couple of years ago to take advantage of the Indiana-bred program. His trainer, Buff Bradley, suggested the Jordans.

there, and I've been very happy," said Reisz. "I will be breeding two mares to stallions up there. Those stallions are nicely bred, and the Jordans do a great job of foaling and breaking and getting them back out on the road."

Janice Jordan's lifelong love of horses is the biggest factor fueling such sentiments.

"We're big, but we still run like a small-time place," she said of Breakway. "I'm here all the time, and I'm hands-on in every aspect; I don't miss anything. I love the horses, and my most important job is keeping these guys happy. I don't like to see horses that are stall-walking and frustrated. They have to be nice and round and plump, and I work hard to have them look good and be happy. I like a good hair coat and body weight and disposition. And that includes the stallions. Our stallions are very well-behaved, considering they are in relative close proximity to each other and they learn to deal with it and be horses and relax and behave well."

The Jordans have a 16-year-old daughter, Tara, who also loves the horses and wants to combine a career on the farm with one in teaching. The family enjoys an annual camping trip to West Virginia combined with going to the races at Charles Town, a bus man's holiday if there ever was one.

You won't find Janice Jordan complaining though.

"I've had opportunities to move on, but I didn't take them," she said. "I'm happy doing what I'm doing." 🐾
