Definitions:

Invasive joint surgery indicates the synovial cavity of a joint was entered with a surgical instrument.

A surgical procedure intended to permanently alter conformation includes all transphyseal bridges (screw(s), screws and wires, staples, screws and small plates or any other transphyseal appliances) and periosteal transections, manipulations and elevations used with the intent of altering conformation.

Prohibited practices:

Shockwave Therapy in any form is prohibited once the horse enters the sales grounds.

Acupuncture and/or Electro-Stimulation with the intent of altering laryngeal function are prohibited once the horse enters the sales grounds.

Internal blisters for alteration of conformation are prohibited within 90 days of sale.
