Public Relations: The Equine Industry is Big Business in New York

As I'm sure you have already noticed, the New York Breeder has a new look and feel this month. I'd like to join our partners at Blood-Horse Publications in welcoming you to a new era in the life of our monthly magazine. I think you will enjoy your New York Breeder now more than ever.

While most of your focus for the last month has probably been fixed on the inaugural Fasig-Tipton Saratoga fall mixed sale, breeding plans, and, of course, on Showcase Day, I would like to draw your attention in a somewhat different direction—to two extremely important initiatives launched by NYTB in partnership with the members of the New York Horse Racing & Agriculture Industry Alliance.

As the Albany legislature takes up the issue of expanded gaming in New York, we wanted to make sure the right tools are available to help educate our elected officials about the importance of the breeding and racing industries to the economic well-being of our State.

With that in mind, the members of the Alliance collaborated on two valuable projects, both completed in mid-October. We now have a fresh new "New York State Equine Industry Economic Impact Study" and a 10-minute informational video with dozens of spot interviews highlighting the importance of the breeding and racing industries in New York, featuring everyone from a Saratoga deli owner to Nick Nicholson, former president of the Keeneland Association.

Five hundred informational packets, containing the economic impact study, the video in DVD form, and other materials were hand-delivered to offices in Albany on the same day we held a press conference announcing the release of the study. The video has been posted on YouTube.

The economic snapshot that emerges from the study lends eloquent support to our cause. In 2011 the equine industry produced $4.2 billion in revenue and generated 33,000 full-time jobs. Equine commerce resulted in $187 million in state and local taxes for New York. The thousands of horse farms, training centers, and riding stables doing business across the state preserved 1.3 million acres of open space.

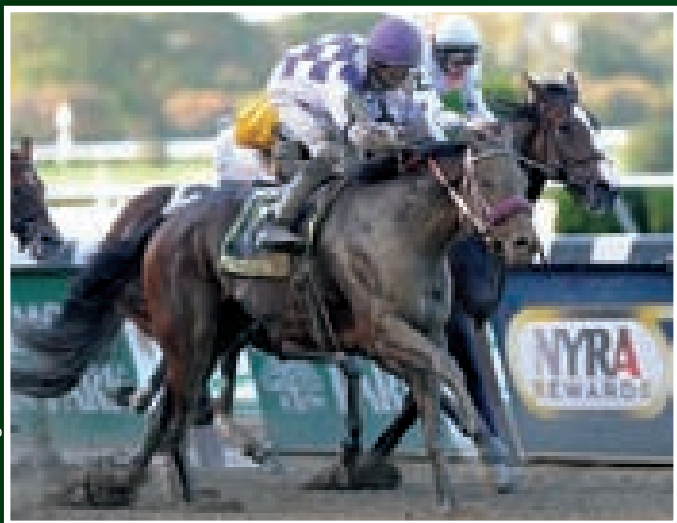

New York's racing industry, in particular, supports a strong workforce. There are 80 jobs for every 100 racehorses in New York and each individual racehorse has an economic impact of $92,100 on the state's bottom line. The racehorse population reached 23,100 last year.

The most telling statistics are those that trace the significant growth of the equine industry in New York since 2005. Due to the state's investment in the industry through the VLT initiative in the harness and Thoroughbred worlds, total revenue from the state's racing and recreational horse industries has increased by 75% despite a national and global economic crisis.

We now have some extremely powerful and persuasive tools in our hands—exactly what we need as we take our case to Albany over the next months. We want there to be no question in the minds of our elected officials about whether our industries have earned the right to have a share in any future casino legislation. The issue is vital, pressing, and all our futures depend on it, but I feel confident that we are entering the arena well-armed and that we will get the job done. 🐾

Meet the New NYRA Board

The New York Racing Association officially became a state-controlled entity Oct. 18 when Democratic Gov. Andrew Cuomo legally activated a new board of directors. Cuomo named eight appointees to NYRA Reorganization Board, while legislative leaders added four others. NYRA also confirmed its choices to the new board that, by law, is set to expire in three years. The racing corporation operates Aqueduct Racetrack, Belmont Park, and Saratoga Race Course.

The replaced NYRA board, under the state law passed in June, was given five seats on the new NYRA reorganization panel. Holdovers heading to the new board are former NYRA chairman C. Steven Duncker, as well as Stuart Janney III, Stuart Subotnick, Charles Wait, and Barry Ostrager. Including Cuomo's and legislative leaders' appointments to the new board, nine of the 17 members of the reconstituted board are holdovers from the former NYRA board.

WHO THEY ARE

Gov. Andrew Cuomo's NYRA appointees:

David Skorton, president, Cornell University — proposed chairman

A cardiologist, professor of biomedical engineering, and professor in the Departments of Medicine and Pediatrics at Weill Cornell Medical College, Skorton is past chair of the Business-Higher Education Forum, an independent, nonprofit organization of industry CEOs, leaders of colleges and universities, and foundation executives. The governor's appointment of President Skorton as chair is subject to approval by the new NYRA Board.

Dr. Skorton said, "Horse racing is an integral part of our state's culture and economy, and I am honored to be joining the talented members of the New York Racing Association Reorganization Board to improve the industry for the horses, jockeys, backstretch workers, horse owners, bettors, and all who enjoy racing and make it happen. With the collective strengths and abilities of my fellow board members, I know we can expand New York State's global leadership in Thoroughbred racing."

Bobby Flay, celebrity chef and Thoroughbred owner

An award-winning chef and restaurateur with a strong interest in Thoroughbred racing. Flay opened his first restaurant, Mesa Grill, in 1991. In 1992 it was named the "Best Restaurant" by New York magazine. Flay is also a horse owner and racing enthusiast. One of his horses, More Than Real, won the 2010 Breeders' Cup Juvenile Fillies Turf.

Jane Rosenthal, producer, co-founder, Tribeca Film Festival, and CEO, Tribeca Enterprises

An acclaimed producer and the co-founder of the Tribeca Film Festival, Rosenthal has produced one of the highest-grossing comedy franchises of all time, "Meet The Parents" (2000). She has produced more than 20 major films and in 2002 organized the first annual Tribeca Film Festival, now an international cultural event.

Leonard Riggio, chairman, Barnes & Noble

Beginning with a single college bookstore in 1965, Riggio built one of the largest enterprises in American retail, now employing more than 50,000 booksellers. He is widely known as a visionary in the book-selling industry and a brilliant marketer and entrepreneur. He also founded video game retailer GameStop. Riggio is also an owner and breeder operating under the name My Meadowview.

Anthony Bonomo, CEO, Administrators for the Professions, Inc.

The CEO of Administrators for the Professions and board member of Physicians' Reciprocal Insurers, Bonomo has been with AFP since 1985. Prior to that time, he served as a litigator on medical malpractice and tort claims. In 2005 he founded Brooklyn Boyz Stables.

Vincent Tese, executive chairman, Bond Street Holdings

A lawyer, investment adviser, and cable television executive, Tese is the executive chairman of Bond Street Holdings, as well as executive chairman of its subsidiary, Florida Community Bank. He has served in state government in a number of positions. Tese also chaired the New York State Advisory Commission on Racing in the 21st Century.

Joseph Spinelli, managing director, Navigant

Spinelli serves as Global Leader of the Anti-Bribery & Corruption Practice at Navigant Consulting. Appointed in 1986, he spent eight years as New York state's first ever Inspector General, leading fraud, abuse, waste, and corruption investigations for all New York state agencies and authorities. In Feb. 2010, he was appointed to — John Hendrickson, newly appointed adviser.

"I like most of the board appointee's announced the last two days. Many understand the industry and can make things happen. Forward progress."

— Gary Contessa, trainer, through Twitter

"(The appointments) could have been a lot worse. Bobby Flay and Earle Mack are in the industry, and I think Earle's instincts are good. I think we're turning a corner."

the New York State Commission on Public Integrity.

Robert Megna, New York state budget director

Megna has served as New York state's budget director since 2009. He is responsible for the development and management of the state's fiscal policy, including overseeing the preparation of budget recommendations for all state agencies and programs, economic and revenue forecasting, tax policy, fiscal planning, capital financing, and management of the state's debt portfolio, as well as pensions and employee benefits. Megna is expected to act as a financial watchdog on the NYRA board.

John Hendrickson, special adviser for Saratoga

Saratoga Springs resident and philanthropist. He manages the breeding and racing operation owned by his wife, Marylou Whitney. Hendrickson and Whitney have initiated the Backstretch Appreciation program to benefit backstretch workers while working at Saratoga Race Course, providing meals and activities for the nearly 2,000 backstretch workers. He will serve as the governor's representative to the NYRA board on issues involving the Saratoga Race Course and the community.

Senate Majority Leader Dean Skelos appointees:

Mack is a former member of the NYRA board of directors and served as chairman of the New York State Racing Commission from 1983-89, during which time he was also a member of the NYS Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund.

Assembly Speaker Sheldon Silver appointees:

Michael J. Del Giudice, chairman, Rockland Capital Energy Investments

Del Giudice has experience in business and government service. He has been the senior managing director of a New York investment bank (Credit Markets) since 1996, with a focus on the power and energy infrastructure market. He served as secretary to the governor and chief of staff to Silver. Del Giudice was appointed to the NYRA board in 2003 and promoted to vice chairman in 2005.

Rick Cotton, executive vice president and general counsel, NBCUniversal

In 1980 he became the special counsel to Deputy Secretary John Sawhill of the U.S. Department of Energy.

Impact Study Values New York Horse Economy at $4.2B

A study released Oct. 16 by a group of racing-related organizations representing owners, trainers, and breeders notes the equine industry in New York represents a $4.2 billion economy responsible for 33,000 direct and indirect full-time jobs.

The report comes as New York is considering expansion of casino gambling that could place up to seven new gambling resort complexes around the state if approved by the legislature and voters next year.

"It shows the importance of the racing industry to the state of New York and how many jobs are involved. And it's all due to the fact that the amount of money we put into the racing industry as a result of the VLT parlors is very beneficial," Assemblyman Gary Pretlow, chairman of the Assembly racing and wagering committee, said of the report's findings.

The report said the state's 23,100 racehorses are part of an overall equine commerce that generates $187 million in state and local taxes while preserving 1.3 million acres of open space. The study found there are 2,300 breeding, training, and racing facilities in New York, in addition to 23,000 farms and stables involved in everything from show horse operations to Thoroughbred and Standardbred racing.

"The equine industry is tremendously important to agriculture in New York state," Dean Norton, president of the New York Farm Bureau, said in a written statement with the release of the report. "Horse farms create jobs, support the agricultural infrastructure, and drive economic development in many regions of the state."

Thanks to the expansion of VLT casinos at nine racetracks, the study said the impact of the equine industry on New York's economy has jumped 75% from the $2.4 billion level in 2005.

The VLT impact is most noticeable, the study said, in the past year since the opening of the new casino at Aqueduct Racetrack. It noted that 400 Thoroughbred farms closed between 2004 and 2011 and more than half of Thoroughbred breeding stallions were transported out of state. But as a result of the Aqueduct casino opening, and the higher purse and breeding award incentives it is raising, 500 new broodmares were relocated to the state in the past year.

"From the moment Thoroughbred breeders in New York felt confident that a revenue stream from the Aqueduct VLTs was on the way to bolster purses and incentive awards, our industry has gone from 'bust' to 'boom'," New York Thoroughbred Breeders executive director Jeffrey Cannizzo said in a statement. "New York-breds are in demand in the marketplace, farms are reopening across the state, and new stallions are coming in. This renaissance is creating hundreds of jobs and injecting needed revenue into communities across our state of New York."

El Corredor Moves to Questroyal North for 2013

El Corredor, the sire of 31 stakes winners, will stand in 2013 at Questroyal North near Stillwater, N.Y. The 2013 fee will be $7,500 when foal stands and nurses. The 15-year-old son of Mr. Greeley formerly stood at Hill 'n' Dale Farms near Lexington.

El Corredor is a half brother to grade I winner and top sire Roman Ruler (by Fusaichi Pegasus), the sire Ruler On Ice, the winner of last year's Belmont Stakes (gr. I). Fusaichi Pegasus is a son of Mr. Prospector, and El Corredor is great-grandson of Mr. Prospector.

"El Corredor is the type of multiple grade I stakes sire the expanding New York breeding market needs and wants," said Questroyal principal Barry Ostrager.

El Corredor is represented this year by eight stakes winners including Beautiful But Blue, who has won three stakes in 2012. Lifetime, El Corredor has sired the earners of more than $30.1 million and 119 juvenile winners. His $3.6 million in progeny earnings this year places him in the No. 2 spot on the New York list.

El Corredor

Out of the unraced Silvery Swan, El Corredor is the sire of seven grade I winners, including New York grade I winners Adieu and Backseat Rhythm. His other grade I winners include Dominican and Crisp.

Dominican's grade I score came in the 2007 Toyota Blue Grass Stakes over champion Street Sense, and Crisp's grade I triumph came in the 2010 Santa Anita Oaks, with subsequent champion Blind Luck finishing third. Crisp was sold in foal to Bernardini for $1.2 million at the 2011 Fasig-Tipton Kentucky November select mixed sale.

El Corredor is represented this year by 75 yearlings.

On the track El Corredor won seven of 10 starts, taking the one-mile Cigar Mile Handicap (gr. I) at Aqueduct, the Del Mar Breeders' Cup Handicap (gr. II) twice, and the Pat O'Brien Handicap (gr. II).

DESERT PARTY HEADS TO SEQUEL

Grade II winner Desert Party, a $2.1 million 2-year-old in training, moves from Darley's operation in Lexington to Sequel Stallions near Hudson, N.Y., for the 2013 breeding season.

The 6-year-old son of Street Cry—Sage Cat, by Tabasco Cat, stood his first two years at stud at Darley.

"We've shown our support for New York breeders by standing Girolamo there this year, and we received it back," said Olly Tait, COO of Darley. "Desert Party standing alongside him at Sequel Stallions in 2013 is another way of moving forward in that market."

FROST GIANT TO KEANE STUD

Frost Giant, the state's leading first-crop sire and sixth nationally, will stand in 2013 at Keane Stud near Amenia, N.Y.

The 9-year-old son of 2012 leading sire Giant's Causeway is owned by Sunset Stables. His fee will be $7,500. Frost Giant, who is out of multiple stakes producer Takesmybreathaway (by Gone West), formerly stood at Vinery New York at Sugar Maple. Frost Giant has progeny earnings of more than $415,000.

"Frost Giant was a group winner at 2 and 3 in Ireland and a grade I winner on dirt," said Dr. Winslow Stevens, general manager of Keane Stud. "He certainly appears to be passing on his precocity and versatility to his runners."

Frost Giant is the sire of West Hills Giant, winner of the $247,338 New York Breeders' Futurity.

RMB:GROWTH IN NEW YORK PROGRAM

The Jockey Club released its annual Report of Mares Bred Oct. 19, and while the number of Thoroughbred mares bred for the year in North America continued to decline, the New York numbers surged.

The number of mares reported covered in New York was 1,641, a 43.1% increase from the 1,147 mares reported covered at the same stage in 2011. New York ranked fifth in number of mares bred behind Kentucky, Florida, California, and Louisiana.

The number of stallions based in New York rose 17.6% from 51 to 60. Eighty-seven of the top commercial stallions (of 1,861) covered 100 or more mares. Five of those 87 are New Yorkers, led by Freud with 161. He was followed by Bluegrass Cat with 118, who was bred to one more mare than first-year stallion Girolamo and Posse. Dublin covered 102 mares.

"There really is no secret to the success here in New York: The state's smart investment through the use of VLT revenue from its racinos is fuelling a powerful surge in breeding throughout the State," said Barry R. Ostrager, president of the New York Thoroughbred Breeders. "We are seeing farmland that had been sitting idle put back into production as horse farms, new investment from out of state pouring into New York, and an increase in jobs. This surge can and will continue if the State keeps its commitment to the horse racing industry."

The count included in TJC report refers only to mares bred to New York stallions and does not include mares that will have New York-bred foals in 2013 by stallions from out-of-state. With those numbers included, the gains shown by the New York breeding industry would be even higher.

Full Moon Fever

Lunar Victory rises in the Empire Classic; one of many top performances on Showcase Day

BY TERESA GENARO

On a vintage autumn day New York-breds took center stage at Belmont Park Oct. 20 for Showcase Day, one of the biggest days on the New York racing calendar, featuring seven stakes for state-breds.

The day, with seven stakes worth $1.15 million, highlighted both the breadth of the New York breeding program and its atmosphere as a close-knit community, both through the homebreds that won and through the horses whose ownership resulted from long-time friendships among owners, breeders, and trainers. Full fields ruled the day with 26 runners going in the pair of juvenile races.

The day's biggest winner, though, offered an unusually international flavor on a day devoted to an in-state racing program.

Racing in a $250,000 headline event, Juddmonte Farms' 5-year-old Lunar Victory could not avoid playing a distant second fiddle to the farm's homebred Frankel, who was attempting to retire undefeated in Britain's QIPCO Champions Stakes (Eng-I). Frankel achieved that milestone earlier that morning, East Coast time, and six hours later Lunar Victory became the first winner of the Empire Classic to have begun his career outside the United States.

Juddmonte Farms bought the Speightstown horse (out of Lunar Colony, by A.P. Indy) at the 2008 Keeneland September yearling sale for $350,000; he was bred by William Parsons Jr. and David S. Howe, but his New York-bred status didn't particularly register for his owners.

"We didn't actively pursue New York-breds," said Garrett O'Rourke, Juddmonte's farm manager in Kentucky. "We had actually attempted to buy a few other horses at the sale and didn't get them; then we had a go at him. He's a lovely looking horse."

The bay youngster was sent to England, where he began his career on turf for trainer John Gosden, winning one race in eight starts before being repatriated to the United States.

"In hindsight," said O'Rourke, "a Speightstown out of an A.P. Indy mare, maybe we should have left him in the United States.”

Lunar Victory made his first North American start in December 2011, finishing second, then won five straight races, in both open and restricted company, before finishing second by a half-length in the Promenade All Stakes at Belmont last month. Earlier this year he'd had 60 days off after bleeding through Salix during a race at Aqueduct March 12.

His stiffest foe in the Empire Classic was Saratoga Snacks, a 3-year-old Tale of the Cat ridgling owned in part by former NFL coach Bill Parcells. After a bruising stretch duel that Saratoga Snacks refused to lose, he finally conceded inside the sixteenth pole. Lunar Victory won by 1¼ lengths in a final time of 1:49.70 for the 1⅛ miles.

“(Saratoga Snacks) battled on hard,” said Bill Mott, trainer of Lunar Victory. “He’s a pretty dog-gone good horse, but our horse is a tough horse. Our horse is more seasoned and had been the mile and an eighth.”

Though the plan had been to give Lunar Victory a break, Mott and O’Rourke are considering running him once this year. Mott mentioned the Nov. 23 Clark Handicap Presented by Norton Healthcare (gr. I) at Churchill Downs as a possibility after his initial Empire Classic score.

“It’s tempting to leave him in New York-bred company because he’s dominating,” said O’Rourke, “but we’ll find out exactly how good he could be. In all probability we’ll definitely try him in open company, and we’ll have to decide whether to go in a graded stakes.”

O’Rourke said he will consult with Mott before making any decision.

“Ninety-nine percent of the time, we go with what Bill says,” said O’Rourke. “He’s in the Hall of Fame, and he’s done such a fantastic job with the horse how could you second-guess anything he’s done?”

Lunar Victory is expected to return next year for a Saratoga campaign.

Hess Sir

Trainer David Donk also garnered high praise after his filly Hessonite won the Ticonderoga Stakes for the second consecutive year. Said co-owner William Punk in the winner’s circle, “We’ve had horses with David for 17 years. He’s a much better trainer than the amount of horses he gets, and people should look at him as a trainer going forward.”

Punk, who owns Hessonite with Philip DiLeo, has good reason to tout his trainer’s skills. He purchased the Freud filly (out of Lakab, by Manila) for $27,000 at the 2009 Keeneland September yearling sale, and with her Ticonderoga victory, she’s earned more than $700,000. She was bred by Berkshire Stud and Waterville Lake Stables.

Freud, a full brother to Giant’s Causeway and the state’s third-leading sire by progeny earnings, stands at Sequel Stallions New York near Hudson.

Hessonite came into the race having run a troubled-trip fifth, beaten five lengths, in the Flower Bowl Invitational Stakes (gr. I) Sept. 29 at Belmont. Her record of 18-9-3-1 boasts a number of state-bred stakes victories but none in open company. She finished second in the Dr. James Penny Memorial Handicap (gr. IIIT) at Parx Casino and Racing in July.

Drenching rain the day before the Ticonderoga left the course “yielding,” a situation very much to Donk’s liking, given his filly’s affinity for soft going. Under jockey Ramon Dominguez, she took her usual spot near the back of the pack; Dominguez rode the hedge for most of the 1⅙ miles, and when he asked her to move through a narrow opening in the stretch, she did so willingly, cruising to an easy 3¾-length victory in a final time of 1:47.46.

Though Hessonite is cataloged for Fasig-Tipton Kentucky’s November sale Nov. 5, she is not certain to go through the ring. According to Punk, DiLeo has said he’d like to keep her, and Punk may be coming around to his way of thinking.

“We may run her next year because we know she’s competitive in graded races, even after what happened last time she ran,” he acknowledged after the race.

Though Punk has bred horses in the past, he’s not tempted to keep his star filly as a broodmare.

“I’m a little older now,” he said. “I’m not looking to breed anymore.”

Mine All Mine

Chester and Mary Broman are no strangers either to New York breeding or to the winner’s circle at Belmont Park, but on this Showcase Day, they won their first Hudson Stakes when homebred Mine Over Matter came from off the pace to take the six-furlong race by a length.

The Bromans also raced Mine Over Matter’s dam, Hansel’s Girl (Hansel), who finished second in the Comely Stakes (gr. III) and third in the Black-Eyed Susan Stakes

(gr. II) in 1998. Mine Over Matter is a 5-year-old chestnut horse by Mineshaft.

With earnings of $368,184, Mine Over Matter is the third of Hansel’s Girl’s six named offspring to have earned more than $100,000. Her 2002 colt, stakes-placed Chestertown Slew (by Seattle Slew), earned $171,826; a 2005 stakes-placed horse, Motor Patrol (by Cherokee Run), earned $148,663.

Chester Broman bought Hansel’s Girl as a yearling at Keeneland.

Mine Over Matter finished fifth in the 2011 Empire Classic at nine furlongs, his last race at that distance as he’s cut back in his last eight starts. Though he seemed to relish the off going over a track labeled “good” after the rain, Broman stressed his horse’s versatility.

“He runs long; he runs short,” said Broman. “He does like an off-track, so we were happy to see the rain.”

Running down the middle of the track, Mine Over Matter got the six furlongs in 1:10.20.

Broman is a member of the board of directors of New York Thoroughbred Breeders and a long-time fixture on the New York racing circuit. He said he can’t remember how many horses he’s owned at this point, but his enjoyment of the sport is undiminished.

“I like it a lot,” he said. “I enjoy time at the farm, raising the babies. It’s great.”

The Bromans’ Chestertown Farm is in Chestertown. He purchased the land in 1995, when it was Dominick De-Luke’s Assunta Louis Farm.

No Match for Matchmadeinheaven

Penny Hallman of Merrylegs Farm thought she had something special in her homebred Matchmadeinheaven, and the 2-year-old Utopia filly lived up to her name when she won the seven-furlong Joseph A. Gimma Stakes.

Hallman is the daughter of Seymour Cohn, a major figure in New York’s racing and breeding industries who passed away in 2003. He purchased Matchmadeinheaven’s dam, Open Marriage (by Deputy Minister), the farm’s foundation broodmare, whose offspring include the multiple stakes winners Chasin’ Wimmin and Pentelis.

For Hallman, though, Matchmadeinheaven’s victory was about much more than the money. “Open Marriage died when this foal was born,” she explained, “and that’s kind of where we got the name. She was also named after my parents, who are not with me, but who are always with me.”

The dark bay or brown filly made her debut in the Lady Finger Stakes at Finger Lakes last month, winning by a neck. She followed up that victory with a more decisive win in Finger Lakes’ Rachel Alexandra Stakes and is now a three-for-three undefeated filly, with all of her victories in stakes races.

Trained by Chris Englehart, Matchmadeinheaven closed from 10th in the field of 12 to win by three-quarters of a length in 1:26.34.

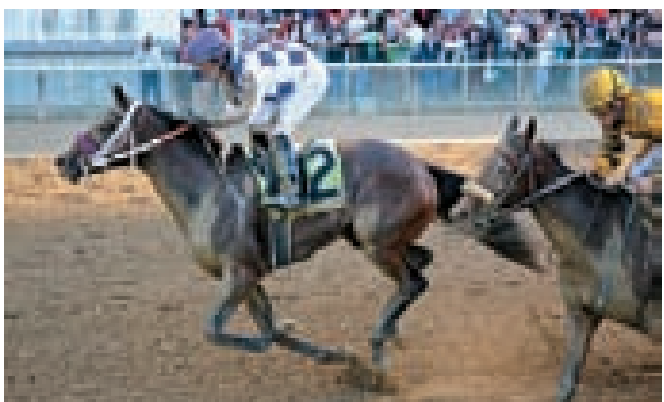

The filly may run next in the New York Stallion Series at Aqueduct next month, or she may get some time off.

“She’s just a baby,” said Hallman, “and you have to take care of them. They’re precious.”

Utopia, a son of Forty Niner, stands at McMahon of Saratoga Thoroughbreds near Saratoga Springs. He has sired two other New York-bred stakes winners this year in My Jopia and I’ll Stake U. and is fifth on the general New York sire list.

Willet Has a Way

In Iroquois Stakes winner Willet, trainer James Iselin, who owns the 4-year-old filly with Charlotte Assoulin and Eli Gindi, has a connection to his father. The Jump Start filly out of Katina K, by Distinctive Pro, was bred by Michael T. Martin, the son of Townsend Martin, who worked with Iselin’s father at Monmouth Park and with the New York Jets. The senior Iselin was at one time president of both, while Martin was on the board of directors of the

“Michael Martin was my best friend, and this is a very exciting day,” said Iselin. “He died prematurely, and I bought this horse from his estate, through Rick Violette. The first time I saw her I fell in love with her.”

In seven career starts Willet has never finished worse than third; the win in the Iroquois is her fourth victory, three of which have been dominating. Sitting off the pace while favored Agave Kiss set her usual blazing fractions, Willet took command in the stretch to draw away by 9¼ lengths in her first stakes win, running the seven furlongs in 1:23.28. Her previous races had all been at six furlongs.

“This is what we train for,” said Iselin. “We want to develop them and run long, and we want to go even further after this race.”

Iselin said that Willet’s next “logical” race would be the Go for Wand Stakes (gr. II) Nov. 23 at Aqueduct.

Fun Weekend

Mike Hoffman’s Red and Black Stable has had horses with trainer Phil Serpe for 14 years; the trainer claimed Hoffman’s first horse, Truly Topflight, for him.

“He’s my personal friend,” said Hoffman. “I trust him like a brother.”

So when Serpe suggested that Hoffman look at some horses in the Flying Zee dispersal sale a year ago, following the death of owner Carl Lizza, Hoffman listened, purchasing four horses. Serpe had been one of Flying Zee’s main trainers before Lizza passed away.

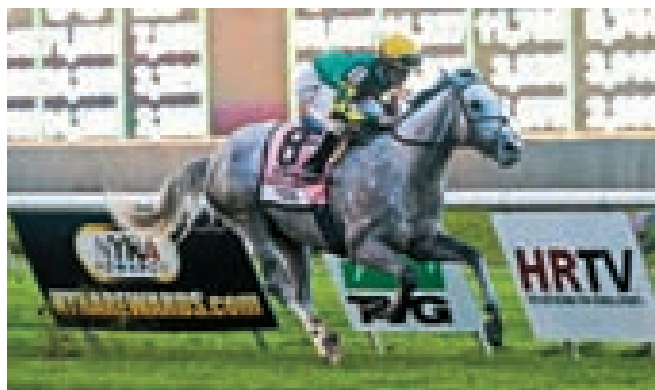

Two of those four horses ran recently: Live Life Fast ran second in her debut at Saratoga Aug. 30, while Weekend Hideaway (Speightstown—Apocalyptical, by Wiseman’s Ferry) won the seven-furlong Bertram F. Bongard Stakes in his fifth career start and now has three wins, a second, and a third. His earnings of $203,000 make his $40,000 purchase look like a pretty good investment. Weekend Hideaway is Apocalyptical’s first foal.

“We’ll always be indebted to Vi (Lizza’s widow), Carl, and Flying Zee for what they did,” said Hoffman.

Weekend Hideaway won two of his first three starts,

Unbridled Command shines in the Mohawk including the David Stakes at Saratoga in August by 6¼ lengths. Encouraged by his talent, his connections ran him in the Futurity Stakes (gr. II) at Belmont last month, in which the chestnut colt finished third.

In the Bongard he sat just off the game Saint Arthur, who held on for second after setting swift fractions of :22.41 and :46.12. Having taken the lead in the stretch, the even-money Weekend Hideaway won by 2½ lengths in a final time of 1:24.59.

“This has a lot of meaning for me,” said Serpe. “I did all the breeding with (Carl Lizza)...and Mike stepped up and bought four of them. We liked (Weekend Hideaway) a lot; he was a nice-looking colt, and I knew him since he was born.”

No More Second-Guessing

When trainer Tom Bush watched the Jamaica Handicap (gr. IT) Oct. 6, he began to second-guess his decision to scratch Unbridled Command from the race. Standing in the winner’s circle after the McMahon of Saratoga Mohawk Stakes, he had dismissed all such thoughts.

“I thought maybe I made a mistake scratching,” said Bush, “but I’m happy I didn’t run. I thought that he needed just a little bit more time from the Saranac (gr. IIIT, Sept. 2 at Saratoga), and I’m happy that we waited, of course.”

The victory was Unbridled Command’s fourth in a row and second at the 1¼-mile distance of the Mohawk. Final time of the race over yielding turf was 1:47.02.

The 3-year-old son of Master Command out of Unbridled Betty, by Unbridled’s Song, was coming off a half-length victory in the Saranac and returned to state-restricted company for the Mohawk. If all goes as planned, he’ll jump back to open stakes races for the Hollywood Derby (gr. IT) Nov. 23 at Betfair Hollywood Park.

“Visually, this was certainly his best race,” said Bush, “and he’s improved in the morning as well. He’s just a smoother, kinder horse, and his breezes are more professional. He’s coming the right way.”

Unbridled Command is owned by Lakland Farm and was bred by Sequel Thoroughbreds and A. Lakin & Sons. He was purchased for $28,000 at the 2011 Ocala Breeders’ Sales Co.’s April 2-year-old sale and has earned $319,040. 🐾

Demand for New York-bred yearlings reaches new heights

BY EVAN HAMMONDS

It's as easy as your first day in Economics 101 class, the basic tenet of "supply and demand." In the face of sizable gains in purses for racing in New York thanks to the Resorts World Casino New York City, the demand for New York-bred Thoroughbreds has increased...dramatically.

"It's the old story: the racetrack is the engine that drives the train," said Craig Bandoroff, owner of Denali Stud near Paris, Ky., and a longtime seller in the New York market. "People gravitate to where there are good purses."

More people in the Thoroughbred industry have gravitated to New York than anywhere else in the last two years. And this is where supply comes in. The New York-bred foal crop has been on the decline and for 2012 it was the smallest in memory. The foal crop of 2010, yearlings of 2011, was 1,347, the smallest since 1,342 foals were registered in New York State in 1998.

Two years ago, selling New York-breds at public auction wasn't easy. The casino had not yet opened at Aqueduct and selling Thoroughbred yearlings in general in North America was tougher based on flagging demand due to the economy.

The North American yearling market peaked in 2006, when the average yearling went for $57,107. Of course, the Great Recession came along, and the average fell for four consecutive years. By 2010 the average yearling in North America brought $39,982.

The average New York-bred yearling in 2010 sold for $25,861. The Fasig-Tipton New York-bred preferred sale yearling went for $39,106.

"I've been up there for years and years and it was always a little bit frustrating," said Pat Costello of Paramount Sales. "You always felt like you were going to have a great sale and somebody would come up with bad news that the slots weren't coming."

Costello should know; he's had a presence in New York for "years and years." He began selling Sugar Maple Farm's horses for several years before that farm joined forces with Vinery.

"That gave a big base and it has built from there," he said.

An interest in New York-bred horses also has been building. At the New York-bred preferred sale the average yearling price jumped to $54,238 in 2011 and this year it advanced to $62,551. That's an increase of 60% in two years. And the demand has been across the board, with the median price moving from $30,000 in 2010 to $35,000 in 2011 and $50,000 this year.

"New York was in such a state of limbo for such a long time," Bandoroff said. "In 2011 we saw a big jump because people finally believed that the program was going to become reality. This year I don't think we had as big a jump, but the reality of the higher purses was there."

"The New York-bred sale was traditionally a tough sale, but last year, with the slots coming in, it was a gangbuster sale," Costello said. "This year was a good sale, too, but maybe not quite as good as last year. But even so, it's been a big swing."

The New York-bred market hasn't just been confined to upstate New York in August, but at other major venues on the East Coast and in Kentucky.

While the average Thoroughbred yearling price has advanced 48.4% over the last two years from $39,982 to $59,338, the average price of a New York-bred yearling selling anywhere in North America has skyrocketed 76%, from $25,861 in 2010 to $45,524 in 2012.

Part of the equation has come from, again, supply and demand, as there were fewer New York-breds offered at sale: 385 state-bred yearlings sold in 2010 compared to 303 so far this year. However, the gross receipts have moved from $9,956,500 in 2010 to $13,793,900 in 2012.

At the Keeneland September sale, the world's largest yearling market, the overall average rose 34.8% from 2010 to 2012. The average Kentucky-bred yearling's price has risen 31.3% while the average New York-bred yearling in Lexington has seen its value advance 51.1%, moving from $43,907 to $66,338.

Bandoroff thinks the New York-bred brand may come into play during Book Three or Book Four of the September yearling sale, but for the most part New York-breds are treated as equals at sales in Kentucky.

"The (preferred) sale that Fasig-Tipton holds at Saratoga is the one sale where New York-breds bring a premium," he said.

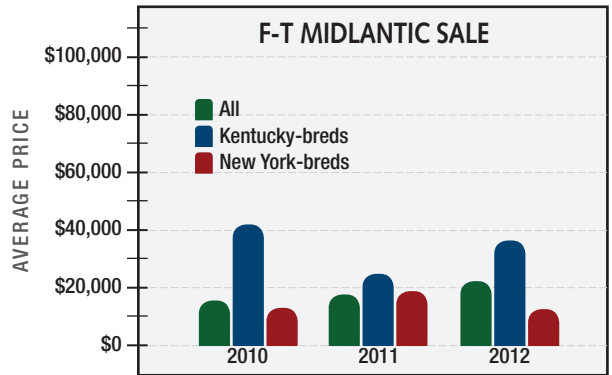

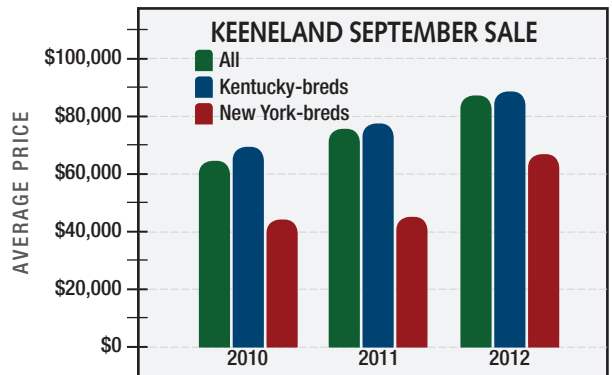

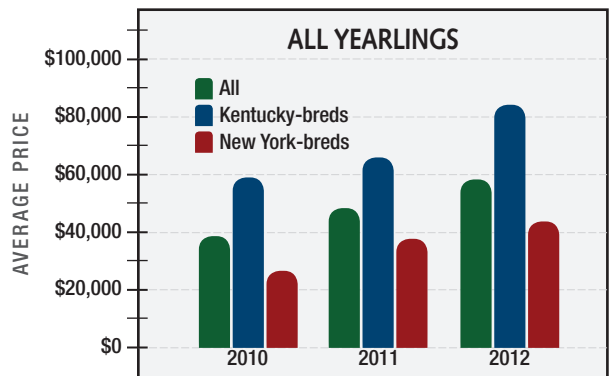

While the average price for a New York-bred at the Fasig-Tipton Midlantic sale, a more regional marketplace, has actually dipped over the last two years from $14,276 to $12,745, the median has soared 88.9% from $4,500 to $8,500.

With any expanding market, new players enter the game. An influx of mares last fall, especially from Kentucky, has led to more New York foals on the ground this winter that will become yearlings in 2013.

"They need them," Bandoroff said of the growing number of foals in New York. "The numbers are low now and how they're going to fill races I don't know. New York is a long way from capacity yet.

"The strength of the New York-bred program...they were pretty smart in putting it together," Bandoroff continued. "The mares can leave New York to be bred in Kentucky and come back and fulfill the residency requirement and foal there and they're New York-breds. That's what makes the program so strong and so hurtful to Kentucky."

New stallions such as Dublin, Girolamo, and Here Comes Ben stood their first seasons in the Empire State, and Bluegrass Cat arrived after spending five years in Kentucky, which will give New Yorkers even more incentive to grow the New York-bred brand. 🐾

Fasig-Tipton New York's fall mixed sale gets off to a solid start; will grow based on success of state-bred program

BY TERESA GENARO / PHOTOS BY SKIP DICKSTEIN

It had been nine years since the last Fasig-Tipton Thoroughbred auction in Saratoga in the fall, but if initial responses are any indication, it won't be nearly that long before the next one.

"We were delighted with the outcome," said Terence Collier, the auction company's director of marketing, a few days after the Oct. 9 mixed and horses of racing age sale.

Fasig-Tipton began to think about re-instituting the Saratoga fall sale last spring, in light of the October 2011 opening of the Genting casino at Aqueduct and the additional revenue it provided to New York's racing and breeding industries.

"The stimulus the New York Thoroughbred breeding program received persuaded the consignors and the breeders in the state that they wanted some opportunities for a mixed sale in the area as opposed to going out of the state," Collier explained.

The majority (203) of the 254 horses cataloged were broodmares and weanlings, rounded out with horses of racing age. Given the late announcement of the sale—it wasn't finalized until the summer—yearlings were excluded, as they were committed to other sales and Fasig-Tipton didn't want to disrupt that part of its program.

"We were pleased with pretty much everything," said Collier, "in terms of the number and quality of the weanlings in the sale. I feel that we can bring up the racehorse part of it with more advance notice, to allow people to plan for it."

Of the 201 horses that went through the ring, 119 sold for an average of $16,249, with 82 horses failing to meet their reserve, a buy-back rate of 40.8%.

While that number might sound dismaying, response from the sale was on the whole optimistic.

"In an industry that is, in general, not opening up new sales, the fact that Fasig-Tipton came into New York again to have a sale for New Yorkers is a big deal," said Jeffrey Cannizzo, executive director of New York Thoroughbred Breeders. "They did a pretty good job of creating something from scratch (this year). There was a good amount of people at the sale, interested in what was selling."

Cannizzo offered several explanations for the high RNA rate.

"Horses have become valuable in New York to race because of the lucrative purse structures," he said. "What we've seen happen all this past year at other sales is that some of the reserves are not in line with the price of the horse at the point of sale. People don't want to sell when they think they can earn money racing.

"You also have to have a good horse to sell, no matter what sale it is," he said. "If horses don't check all the boxes in terms of what is commercially marketable, they don't sell, and some of the RNAs probably fell into that category as well."

Cannizzo also pointed out the majority of the horses that didn't meet a reserve were broodmares.

"That's not any different from other sales," he said. "Mares are very hard to maneuver, because of the size of the mare population. There are a lot of them available."

The sale-topper was Closing Move, a 3-year-old Bernardini filly out of the Storm Cat mare Show Me the Roses. Winless in six starts with four placings, she was consigned by Tom Albertrani and sold as a racing/broodmare prospect to Thomas Voss for $100,000.

"I went up there to buy a couple of other horses, and she caught my eye," said Voss. "Her walk and her presence were great; she had a lot of class and there was nothing not to like."

Though he purchased her primarily as a broodmare, Voss is likely to run the filly this year and is hopeful about her potential.

"If you can get some black type with her somewhere," he said, "you've hit a home run. But that remains to be seen."

"She's very smart and I'm certainly glad that we bought her. We couldn't be more pleased."

Two of the four top-selling horses were weanlings from the first crop of Munnings. Both were consigned by Vinery Sales. By Speightstown out of the Holy Bull mare La Comete, Munnings is a multiple grade II winner and multiple grade I stakes-placed. A weanling filly out of the Not For Love mare That's Ok sold for $67,000 to Bernard Stables; a weanling colt out of Nice Kitty Kitty (Forest Wildcat) went for $57,000 to Mill Creek Farm, agent.

Vinery also consigned the top seller by a New York-based sire, a Justenuffhumor weanling filly out of Delaste (Chimes Band) that went to Kirk Wycoff, Brian Morgan, agent, for $37,000. Justenuffhumor stands at McMahan of Saratoga Thoroughbreds.

"I was happy enough," said Dan Hayden, general manager of Vinery at Sugar Maple, located near Poughquag, N.Y. "There was a good market for the nice, forward weanlings, the ones that stood out in the market."

Vinery purchased Sugar Maple Farm in 2011 for its New York-based stallions and welcomed the chance to offer horses here.

"We need a mixed sale," Hayden said. "We know there can be a good market up here for weanlings, and we need an avenue to move our mares around without having to ship to Maryland or Kentucky."

Though broodmares and weanlings were offered in nearly equal measure—98 of the former, 105 of the latter—the market for weanlings was much stronger, a factor, said Becky Thomas of Sequel Stallions, of both the strength of the New York racing program and the weakness of the economy.

"There's so much interest in the New York program," said Thomas. "The closer the horse is to running, the more people are interested in our product."

"It's very expensive to raise a baby," she went on, "so when you look and you see the baby and the X-ray is available for inspection and there's a prospect much closer to the racing that will bring you money, it's very attractive. When you buy a mare, you don't know what you'll get; you don't even know if she'll have a foal."

And while the recent infusion of money from gaming has made racing in New York more attractive, the problem of selling broodmares isn't strictly a local one, according to Thomas.

"Whether you are selling in Kentucky or Maryland or Ocala or New York, it is exactly the same," she declared. "The mares have a very tough way to go right now."

While broodmare consignors may not have been happy about the broodmare market, the overseas client of at least one Kentucky-based bloodstock agent was.

"The sale didn't really pan out for me the way as I thought it might," said Louisville native Chad Schumer of Schumer Bloodstock Agency. "I came looking for foals to re-sell or the Darley horses of racing age."

Instead, he signed tickets for six broodmares totaling $55,500, all for an overseas client.

"Because of its size and scope, the Keeneland (November breeding stock) sale is a bigger international draw, and it's going to be very competitive," he said. "My client was thinking, 'Maybe we can pick them off in regional sales,' and he was right."

Despite the lower prices for broodmares, Thomas was encouraged by the Saratoga sale results and happy to see a fall sale back in New York. "The sale was very well attended," she observed, "and there was a lot of interest in our horses."

"With a breeding population as large as New York's," she continued, "New York breeders should have the same opportunities that breeders in other regional markets, like California or Maryland or Florida, have. I couldn't be more excited to have the sale back, and I'm incredibly excited about a sale for horses of racing age. I vetted four horses of racing age for clients, and we didn't get any of them. There's a strong market for those horses."

Trainer Kieran McLaughlin, who consigned Darley's horses of racing age, agreed. "We've needed a proper horses-in-training sale for quite some time," he said, suggesting that type of sale goes beyond a local absence. "They're hard to fit in, it's hard to find a time to get the horsemen there, but I hope the horses we sold do pretty well so we can build on this in the future.

“We need somewhere to move horses on, to race or as possible broodmares or stallions; we need an outlet for the lesser horses. This was ideal for us.”

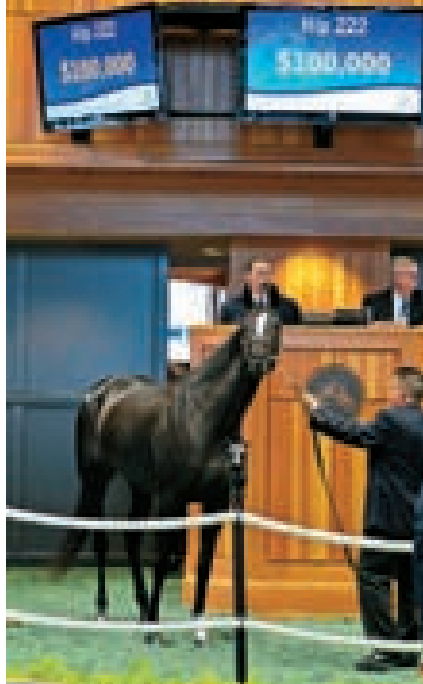

While the sale enjoyed positive reviews from the participants, Cannizzo cautioned the final estimation of its success is a year away.

“The biggest take-away will be answered a year from now,” he said. “I believe you’ll see the sale’s popularity grow when the weanlings turn back around and are sold as yearlings at Fasig-Tipton next year. If they sell at a significant profit, you’ll have more people interested in this October sale.”

Beyond the vagaries of the racing business, consignors and buyers will need to keep an eye on what’s happening in New York State government. Gov. Andrew Cuomo recently signed legislation that will put the New York Racing Association under state control for three years, and his plans for racing in New York are unclear.

“The uncertainty (in racing) did affect the market,” said Vinery’s Hayden. “It affected the yearling market as well. There wasn’t the euphoria that there was last year when it looked like it was plain sailing.”

hold until the governor announces his plans. When the Aqueduct casino opened last year and it looked as though stability would come to New York racing for the first time in more than a decade, she reopened her farm near Hudson, where she stands Noonmark, Girolamo, and leading New York sire Freud. Now, expansion plans have to wait.

“I met with a builder about building a stallion complex, but that will be on hold while we look to Gov. Cuomo to see what is going to happen,” she said.

Cannizzo offered words of encouragement about a racing industry under government control.

“The New York program was strong to begin with, and it will always be strong based on its structure,” he offered. “The state’s franchise agreement with the New York Racing Association protects our industry in terms of gaming revenue. We’re operating under a contract with the state and a contract has to be held in place.”

Additionally, he believes Cuomo will grasp the importance of racing and breeding to the state.

“Our governor has a keen understanding of the economic engine that the equine industry is in New York, and I firmly believe he’s not looking to destroy that,” Cannizzo said.

Given a decade of uncertainty, New York racing’s stakeholders have reason to look warily at what’s ahead. It appears, however, that they can count on selling their horses in Saratoga not only in August of next year, but in October as well.

“There was no aspect of the sale that didn’t encourage us,” said Fasig-Tipton’s Collier. “It will be on our calendar for 2013.” 🐾

The lists are presented alphabetically by sire followed by the winners dam. The name of the winner is in lightface capital letters (boldface capital letters if the win came in a stakes race), followed in parentheses by the number of current-year starters in North America for the sire and the sire's total number of individual winners in 2012, regardless of state where bred. Followed by the winners sex; age; race track; class of the race; date of the race; distance of the race, expressed in furlongs and fractions of furlongs; time of the race; first-place money earned by the winner.

Abbreviations used for the class of race are similar to those used by Equibase: Alw—allowance; Hcp—overnight handicap; names of stakes race are spelled out, with the grade of the race, when applicable, in parentheses.
