Tried and True

Bloodstock agent Harry 'Chip' Landry has been selling for more than 40 years

BY EVAN HAMMONDS

FEW HAVE BEEN able to make an entrance into the Thoroughbred business the way Harry “Chip” Landry did. Fresh off graduating from a course on stud management sponsored by the Grayson Foundation in the late 1960s, Landry and some partners purchased a farm near Leesburg, Va. With some help from Carolyn and Sam Rogers, he put together his first consignment at Fasig-Tipton in Timonium, Md., in 1968.

“I got some notoriety the first sale I went to,” Landry said. “I had a Delta Judge filly that came into the ring and normally (auctioneer) John Finney would have read the pedigree and talked about the horse, but he was on the phone. Whoever was in the auction stand just kind of mentioned the horse and who she was and went on trying to sell her. She wasn’t selling very well. I jumped up out of my seat and yelled, ‘If that guy would get off the phone and tell the people about my filly, she’d bring what she should be bringing.’ She wound up bringing about three times what she was about to be hammered down for.

“I guess a lot of people had sort of wished they could say something like that to Mr. Finney. I didn’t know who he was or what the deal was, so my naiveté paid off and I gained a fair amount of notoriety with people saying, ‘Are you the guy who told John Finney to get off the phone?’”

Much quieter since those early days Landry has been selling horses at Timonium for 46 years and at the Fasig-Tipton sales in New York since they first started selling New York-breds there in the 1970s. He maintains his business in a simple, professional manner.

"He's been a mainstay at both the Timonium and New York sales for, how long has it been, more than 40 years?" said Boyd

Browning, president and CEO of Fasig-Tipton. "He's always dapper in his dress, in his distinctive colors of red and yellow. He's been associated with a lot of nice horses and sells a quality product. He's always very professional and is a pleasure to do business with. He's a good horseman

Special Note For Sire Lists:

For stallions that stand, will stand, or stood (deceased) in North America (stallions exported prior to the 2010 breeding season are excluded), and have runners in North America. All available statistics listed for the Northern Hemisphere through November 2, 2014. As supplied to The Blood-Horse by The Jockey Club Information Systems, Inc., earnings exclude monies from Japan and Hong Kong. Current year stakes winners include all N.H.-foaled stakes winners worldwide and any S.H.-foaled horses that won a N.H. stakes. *Foal counts include Southern Hemisphere. Cumulative stakes winners includes all countries. (A ¶ indicates a sire represented by his first crop to race.)

*AVERAGE-EARNINGS INDEX and COMPARABLE INDEX: Lifetime AVERAGE-EARNINGS INDEX indicates how much purse money the progeny of one sire has earned in relation to the average earnings of all runners in the same years; average earnings of all runners in any year is represented by an index of 1.00; COMPARABLE INDEX indicates the average earnings of progeny produced from mares bred to one sire, when these same mares were bred to other sires. Only 32% of all sires have a lifetime AVERAGE-EARNINGS INDEX higher than their mares' COMPARABLE INDEX.

Landry has owned or operated farms in Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York.

“That’s why I’ve had a ‘quiet’ bloodstock life because it’s always been my neighbors from my various locales that were my clients, so I never did any advertising,” he said. “I’ve managed to raise a family and have a good life.”

While Landry, 75, has spent his professional life in the horse-centric Midatlantic region, he is originally from Louisiana.

Growing up just outside Baton Rouge, Landry had an uncle who would talk Landry’s mother into letting him take the youngster to Fair Grounds in New Orleans.

“In the fourth grade my teacher asked us what we wanted to do with our lives, and I wrote down that I was going to have racehorses and I was going to have a dozen children," Landry said.

An underachiever, Landry and his late wife had only 10 children.

Landry and Louise Ann Gordon met, of course, at a horse sale. She purchased a broodmare from Landry's consignment, and "she always said she bought me at a horse sale," he said.

Their first date was in 1973 at the Belmont Stakes (gr. I) to witness Secretariat sweep the Triple Crown. A few years later the Landrys were part of a syndicate that owned a $275,000 colt from the first crop of Secretariat. Out of the mare Exclusive Dancer, Seclusive was a three-time winner who earned $31,440. Exclusive Dancer's second foal by Secretariat, who came along the following year, was Travers Stakes (gr. I) winner General Assembly.

Landry had another connection with Secretariat's owner, Penny Chenery. In the early 1990s Landry, along with Sam Huff, owned a filly by Cormorant out of the In Reality mare Super Luna that had been bred by Chenery. Bought back for $18,000 at the Fasig-Tipton Saratoga preferred sale of New York-breds, the filly, named Saratoga Dew, would win two grade I races for Charles Engel, be named champion 3-year-old filly of 1982, then sell to Japanese interests for $850,000 at the 1995 Keeneland November sale.

While in Virginia, the Landrys owned Stonebridge Farm and later moved to a much larger farm called Warrenton Stud. Chip became involved with the Virginians for Horse Racing group that was a concern long before Colonial Downs came along.

"At some point I felt like we were hitting our heads against a cement wall, so I moved on from Virginia," he said. "My wife had a farm in Pennsylvania, so we bounced back and forth between the two places for a while and I took out my trainer's license and was training at Penn National."

Noting it was fun, Landry didn't train any horses of note other than one that "you couldn't train on the track. You just had to turn him out in a field and he would circle the field as many times as he thought necessary and then he would let you catch him and put him back in his stall. He was a self-trained horse. He had a habit of stopping right on the finish line. We never knew whether he won or was passed by everybody."

From Pennsylvania the Landrys moved to Maryland to a farm near Chesapeake

City named St. Augustine Farm and were part of the group that purchased the 1,000-acre Windfields Farm, which was later divided into several farms including today's Northview Stallion Station.

After operating a farm in New Jersey for a while, the Landrys moved to a farm near Charlton, N.Y., and had a home in Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

"We used to just be summer people up here while we had the other locations," Landry said. "We had a house in Saratoga Springs right on Union Avenue. At one time we had the closest privately owned home to the front of the track, but then about 12-13 years ago we decided to buy a house on the river. It was going to be a weekend house, but it had been abandoned for 20 years so it turned into a money pit. It was a matter of selling the house in town so we could finish this one to make it livable. It's a lovely house, and it has the best view of the Hudson River."

Landry has also had a great view of the Thoroughbred business for the last 40-plus years. As a bloodstock agent, he notes his highest point came early on when he sold the mare to his future wife. Financially he's done well, selling some horses privately that were considered homeruns.

"I bought a mare for $5,000 at Keeneland that I sold for $250,000 back to the guy who sold me the horse for $5,000," he said. "I bought a mare in Arkansas, with a foal by her side, for $10,000 and between her and the filly, I got about a quarter of a million for that pair. Hilmer Schmidt bought the mare. There have been some others that were pretty good deals. I've got some stakes horses going right now that I sold. I'm sure the people that have bought them have thought they've hit a home run."

For Snow Lantern Thoroughbreds, a pair of longtime clients Robert Powell and Dr. Joseph Orlick from Virginia, Landry sold Avanzare (Grand Reward—Turn the Tide, by Theatrical) for $1,100 at the 2011 Fasig-Tipton Midlantic yearling sale. The 4-year-old gelding won the Washington Park Handicap (gr. III) Aug. 30 and was third in the City of Hope Mile Stakes (gr. IIT) Oct. 4 at Santa Anita Park.

Snow Lantern's Long On Value was a $3,000 sale at the 2012 Midlantic sale. The son of Value Plus—Long Message, by Orientate, has won four stakes for Wachtel Stable and George Kerr, getting up late Oct. 31 to win the Twilight Derby (gr. IIT) on the Friday Breeders' Cup program.

"I was cheering him on," said Landry, who watched the race on TV. "Robert didn't have the channel, so I was calling the race to him over the phone. He really enjoyed it."

Twilight Derby winner Long On Value was bred by clients of Landry

"I have a great respect for him and his knowledge of horses," said Powell of Landry, who has been a client since the late 1960s. "I'm in another business but I've always enjoyed the horse business as an advocacy as much as a vocation, and he has acted as my agent on every horse I've ever bought or sold."

"Through all of those years—except for a few rare years when I had another farm down in Georgia—we've been in partnership up until this last year when Louise died."

Powell notes the success they've had with Turn the Tide and Long Message, the dams of Avanzare and Long On Value, respectively, horses they teamed up on early.

Turn the Tide was a $5,000 purchase for Powell at the Fasig-Tipton Midlantic winter mixed sale in 2006. Though she was unraced, her second foal was Avanzare who races for bloodstock agent Donato Lanni and John F. Youngblood. Lanni has since purchased the Turn the Tide who is in foal for 2015 to The Factor.

Long Message was bred in New York by Landry and Rhapsody Farm, and Long On Value is her third foal. She has been bred to Mill Ridge Farm stallion Keep Up for 2015.

Long Message is on Powell's farm in Virginia and when his mares are in Kentucky to be bred they reside at Millennium Farm.

Landry had a 36-horse consignment at the Oct. 6-7 Fasig-Tipton Saratoga mixed sale, and he was among the leading consignors by gross. While active, Landry contemplates slowing down following the death of his wife this past spring, perhaps wintering in the Ocala, Fla., area, but don't expect him to exit the business the way he came in anytime soon.

"People ask me when am I going to retire," he said. "I say, 'People work all of their life so they can retire and do what they want to do.' And I've been doing it my whole life. So what am I going to do? Go retire and do something I don't want to do?" BH
