BREEDER AND SALES CONSIGNOR Judy Curry of Tuttle, Okla., said she's been told she's incurable. But that's alright with her because it's her love for Thoroughbreds that can't be treated.

Curry, 52, has spent most of her life around horses, but it wasn't until after she

Curry, and her husband, Todd, have lived on the farm for a year and a half moved to Oklahoma in the fall of 1986 that she experienced her first taste of Thoroughbred racing. What started as a college field trip to Blue Ribbon Downs became the turning point in Curry's career path.

"I grew up in South Dakota. I've always had a love for horses," Curry said. "Living there, I did 4-H, rodeo, and had a couple horses of my own. I always knew that I would be in the horse business."

Curry currently operates her JLC Horses business on the farm she owns with her husband, Todd, outside Oklahoma City. She runs a hands-on operation with her small herd without any hired assistance, doing all the daily care and most of the sales prep herself. She has two newly turned yearlings, three mares, and two foals on the way.

with young Thoroughbreds and watching them grow, she first had her sights locked in on the performance world.

"My heart was set on being a barrel-horse trainer," she said.

Curry earned an equine degree from Connors State College in Warner, Okla.

The program's students toured various horse farms to learn about different disciplines and made a stop at Blue Ribbon Downs, which raced Thoroughbreds, Quarter Horses, and Paint Horses.

"I completely fell in love with Thoroughbred racing," she said.

On the racetrack tour she met trainer Kerry Einerson, a fellow Connors State graduate. After the students climbed back on the bus Curry recalled Einerson saying he was looking for summer help and wanted to know if anyone was interested. Curry raised her hand. Wanting to stay in Oklahoma for the summer between her first two years of college, she spent the break working for Einerson and learning about Thoroughbreds at Blue Ribbon Downs.

"He's such a good horseman," Curry said. "I learned a lot about the ins and the outs of the Thoroughbreds and how each one of them is so different. He would train them as individuals. He always made sure the horse was in the correct class of racing."

Curry later returned to her roots and interned with a barrel-horse trainer, but the Thoroughbreds and the racetrack lingered in her mind.

"I loved it, had a great time, and I learned a lot," Curry said of her barrel-horse internship, "but my heart was in racing. Three months turned my whole outlook on what part of the horse business I wanted to be in."

Upon graduation, Curry rejoined Einerson's team and moved to Bossier City, La., to work at Louisiana Downs. She later

THE GRASS IS GETTING GREENER IN TEXAS!

With an additional $25 million expected to be pumped into Texas racing and breeding each year, now is the perfect time to bring an in-foal broodmare in from out of state and then breed her back to one of the many top stallions standing in the Lone Star State. All you need to do is have her accredited and in the state before she foals, and you can take advantage of the new funds!

moved back to Oklahoma and took a job at NoName Ranch, a Thoroughbred breeding farm, for a couple of years before marrying Todd.

Curry, who travels back and forth to Kentucky to buy and sell horses at Keeneland and Fasig-Tipton auctions, credits Todd and their two grown children, Kylie and Kade, for helping keep the farm running while she is away.

“He’s helped me a lot during the years trying to build my business,” Curry said of Todd, who owns his own construction business. “He does a lot of things for me when I’m not home, when I’m gone to a sale, and takes care of what horses I have here. It’s the same way with our kids. My daughter does most of the taking care of the animals on what she calls the ‘funny farm’ when I’m gone.”

The farm is home to two yearlings, three mares, and two foals on the way

Special Note For Sire Lists:

For stallions that stand, will stand, or stood (deceased) in North America (stallions that have died or been exported prior to the 2015 breeding season are excluded), and have runners in North America. Listed below are all available Northern Hemisphere statistics through December 22, 2019. As supplied to The Blood-Horse by The Jockey Club Information Systems, Inc., earnings include adjusted money from Japan, Hong Kong, and Singapore. Adjusted earnings are put on par with average North American earnings from the previous year. For example, the average North American purse in 2018 is $23,755 or 50% of the 2018 average purse in Japan. To put earnings on par, all Japanese progeny earnings are multiplied by 50% before being credited to a sire's progeny earnings. Hong Kong earnings are adjusted by 15%; Singapore by 66%. Current year stakes winners include all Northern Hemisphere black-type stakes results from all available countries. *Foal counts include Southern Hemisphere. Cumulative stakes winners include all countries.

*AVERAGE-EARNINGS INDEX and COMPARABLE INDEX: Lifetime AVERAGE-EARNINGS INDEX indicates how much purse money the progeny of one sire has earned in relation to the average earnings of all runners in the same years; average earnings of all runners in any year is represented by an index of 1.00; COMPARABLE INDEX indicates the average earnings of progeny produced from mares bred to one sire, when these same mares were bred to other sires. Only 32% of all sires have a lifetime AVERAGE-EARNINGS INDEX higher than their mares' COMPARABLE INDEX.

Todd and Judy are hands-on in every phase of their Thoroughbred operation

"October and November are really busy for me because I'm gone for the (Fasig-Tipton Kentucky) October (yearling) sale, then I come home for a few days, and I turn right back around and go back to the (Keeneland) November sale. It's pretty much up to Todd and the kids to take care of things while I'm gone."

Curry's mornings on the farm include feeding and grooming the horses herself, cleaning stalls, handling turn out, sales prep, and checking over each horse.

"I don't have a real high-pressured schedule," she said. "I go out; I feed the horses myself," Curry said. "I like to do that because I want to see my horses every morning. I want to see if there are any changes, if someone's sick. I'm very, very hands on."

And if Curry does have to be out of town, she has a team she trusts behind her in her absence.

"It's very structured," she said. "They have a list that they have to go by if they have to feed for me."

After working at NoName Ranch, Curry

Curry enjoyed a successful year pinhooking in 2017

Thoroughbreds.

The Currys were located in Tupelo, Okla., before moving the farm to near Tuttle. Curry bought her first two weanling pinhook prospects in partnership in 2006.

At the 2006 Keeneland November sale, one of the weanlings she purchased was a Kentucky-bred Rainmaker (a son of Storm Cat) filly that cost $2,500. Curry prepped and resold the filly herself, taking her to the 2007 Fasig-Tipton Texas summer yearling sale, where the filly brought $77,000.

While Curry wasn't very active during the Great Recession, she got back in the game in 2011 and purchased her first broodmare that year. She's bred in both Oklahoma and Kentucky and has bred and consigned with Susan Forrester in Kentucky.

Curry recalled a particularly great 2017. At that year's Fasig-Tipton Kentucky July yearling sale, Curry sold an I Want Revenge filly through Forrester's consignment. Curry bred the filly in Oklahoma out of the multiple stakes-placed Smart Strike mare Whiletheiron'shot, whom Curry had purchased for $8,000 at the 2015 Keeneland January mixed sale before breeding to I Want Revenge.

"I paid $2,700 for the stud fee, and she sold for $40,000," Curry said of the filly named Kweenkim. "She actually was an Oklahoma-bred, and she has been racing in Oklahoma and Minnesota.”

Curry’s success continued at the 2017 Fasig-Tipton Kentucky October yearling sale. She consigned two yearlings with Forrester, as agent, and both brought big returns. The first was a Strong Mandate colt out of the Giant’s Causeway mare Unbridled Magic. Curry purchased Unbridled Magic for $12,000 at the 2016 Fasig-Tipton Kentucky February winter mixed sale while the mare was carrying the Strong Mandate colt. The mare foaled in Kentucky, and Curry sold the colt for $60,000.

At that same sale Curry sold a filly from Mucho Macho Man’s first crop that became one of her favorites to work with since starting JLC Horses. The filly, an Oklahoma-bred out of the stakes-placed Jade Hunter mare Ayres Hall, was an $8,000 purchase at the 2016 Keeneland November sale. Curry brought the filly home to Oklahoma and put her horsemanship skills to work.

“She had a mind of her own, and she’d definitely make you go, ‘OK, we got to think about this a different way.’ She had her moments,” Curry said. “When I first bought her she was tough. I’m talking tough.”

The filly kept Curry on her toes but made the consignor’s work enjoyable as it brought out the skill set that Curry loves to use. Curry worked with the filly on leading, picking up her back feet, and being handled by people.

“It took me back to those days when I was doing a lot of training and a lot of halter breaking of colts and working with horses that had never seen a human before,” Curry said. “She definitely took me back to those days, bringing out the trainer in me. Once we got through all that she wasn’t too bad.”

Once at the sale, the filly brought $65,000.

“I really did enjoy her quite a bit,” Curry said. “She taught me a lot about getting back to being a horseman and bringing out my horsemanship skills.”

Both the horses Curry sold at the 2017 October sale—a colt named Mind Trick and a filly named Flying Blue—won as 3-year-olds in California in 2019.

“I had a super, super 2017,” Curry said. “It was fun.”

The Currys have lived at their farm for about a year and half. The move was Todd’s

I'm closer to vets. I'm closer to more farriers and equine chiropractors," she said. "Anybody that does anything with horses I'm a lot closer to, so that makes it easier for me to do what I need to do and have done. Plus we've got more land here than where we previously lived, and the grass is a lot better here too."

The farm sits on about 22 acres and has a seven-stall barn, which is plenty of room. Curry said the property previously served as a miniature horse farm, but the barn itself was designed for regular-sized horses. She has worked on setting up the turnout fields, as the fencing was built for miniatures.

It was at the racetrack that Curry fell in love with Thoroughbreds—and the farm puts her a 45-minute drive from Remington Park compared to the previous drive of two hours and 15 minutes—but she has since fallen in love with work on the farm and the young horses.

"I love to see them turned out, and I love to watch them and see their different personalities," she said. "I like the day-today, the ins and the outs of each horse."

Being as hands-on as she is, her days will stay busy with more young horses on the way. She'll put her training skills to use and get to know the next generation of youngsters to pass through JLC Horses.

"They've all got a different mind," she said. "I guess that's why I probably like the Thoroughbreds so much, because they all have different minds and it keeps you on your toes. It keeps your horsemanship skills in tune."
